Providers' Commitment to Patient Care Amicus Brief

Amici are Planned Parenthood Federation of America, National Abortion Federation, Physicians for Reproductive Health, and Abortion Care Network.

This brief conveys first-hand accounts from health care professionals, describing—in their own words—why they provide abortion care and their unflagging dedication to their patients' wellbeing.

These narratives highlight two central themes: Medical professionals who provide abortion are deeply committed to providing compassionate, high-quality, patient-centered care. And they go to great lengths to satisfy medically irrelevant requirements, like Act 620, but are stymied for reasons beyond their control.
