THE CENTER FOR REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS USES THE LAW TO ADVANCE REPRODUCTIVE FREEDOM AS A FUNDAMENTAL HUMAN RIGHT THAT ALL GOVERNMENTS ARE LEGALLY OBLIGATED TO PROTECT, RESPECT, AND FULFILL.

FROM THE PRESIDENT AND THE BOARD CHAIR

The Center for Reproductive Rights deploys the power of the law to bring reproductive autonomy to women across the globe—whether we are winning freedom for one woman after almost a decade of wrongful imprisonment in El Salvador or ensuring that more than five million women in Texas have access to essential reproductive services.

Your steadfast support has enabled us to undertake some of the most challenging and critical work of our time. As you look through these pages, we hope you are inspired by the stories of women who have raised their voices and demanded justice and that you share our pride in having shaped a more just world for women everywhere. We could not do this without you.

SUCCESS STORIES...

TAKING THE FIGHT TO THE SUPREME COURT TO KEEP CLINICS OPEN

Without the repeated intervention of our tenacious legal team, it would be nearly impossible to find safe, legal abortion care within a thousand-mile stretch from Mississippi to Texas. Now we are headed to the U.S. Supreme Court to stop Texas' clinic shutdown law HB2, which would leave as few as 10 providers to serve a population of 5.4 million women of reproductive age. It is one of the toughest battles we have faced in over 20 years. But together, we can make history.

Twice we have convinced the Supreme Court to preliminarily block Texas' sham law. Today 19 clinics remain open while the legal challenge continues—thanks to the Center's action.

LIFTING WOMEN'S VOICES AGAINST HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES

The Center, in partnership with the National Latina Institute for Reproductive Health, held the first-ever domestic women's human rights hearing in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, raising the voices of Latinas most harmed by the state's attacks on preventive reproductive health care and abortion. The 17 women who testified each had a story about hardship and resilience. Members of the UN Working Group on Discrimination against Women are returning to Texas in December to dig deeper into the crisis and listen to women's stories, and will issue a report and recommendations based on their visit.

Hundreds of local women and their families rallied in conjunction with the human rights hearing, which addressed the devastating harm to women and immigrants inflicted by Texas policies.

ADVANCING A PROACTIVE POLICY AGENDA

At a time when many state legislatures seem focused on setting back women's health and rights, we convened 150 forward-looking lawmakers and advocates from 15 targeted states at our State Leadership Summit in Washington, D.C., last June. These top leaders shared ideas, strategies, and tactics for advancing legislation aimed at improving the delivery of essential reproductive health services in their states, and returned to their home districts well-equipped to advance proactive agendas.

PROTECTING WOMEN WORLDWIDE WITH IMPACT LITIGATION

We filed a groundbreaking case in the Kenya High Court to hold the government accountable for what happened to Wanjiku, a 14-year-old rape victim who nearly died after getting an abortion from a phony doctor. She is just one of hundreds of thousands of Kenyan girls and women who risk their lives each year to obtain essential reproductive health services. Our litigation demands that the government make good on its commitment to ensure access to a range of essential reproductive health services. The case is one of a growing portfolio of litigation and advocacy we are using to protect the lives and well-being of women and families.

A photograph of a young person with short dark hair, seen from the side and back, wearing a black jacket. They are sitting on a green lawn. To their left is a bright pink bag with large black polka dots. The person's hands are resting on their lap. The background is a dense field of green grass.

Wanjiku (above) was detained by the hospital because her mother, a poor tea picker, could not pay the medical bills. The Center's case at the High Court of Kenya aims to restore access to safe abortion and protect the health and lives of 120,000 women each year.

Unjustly convicted of homicide after experiencing a miscarriage, Guadalupe was at last freed in February 2015. For more than 16 years, El Salvador has criminalized abortion in all cases, even when a pregnancy resulted from rape or puts a woman's life at risk.

DEPLOYING BOLD ADVOCACY TO FREE LAS 17

Following a decade of the Center's bold advocacy—which generated international outrage—the Salvadoran government released from prison a young woman, Guadalupe, who had been wrongfully sentenced to 30 years for homicide after having a miscarriage. There are more than a dozen women like Guadalupe—known as Las 17—also imprisoned under El Salvador's total abortion ban. We will not stop fighting until all are free.

IGNITING ACTION ON CHILD MARRIAGE

The Center is leading efforts to ensure South Asian governments take responsibility for ending child marriage. We convened representatives from eight countries to endorse the Kathmandu Call for Action and denounce child marriage as a human rights violation. The UN Human Rights Council subsequently passed a groundbreaking resolution to eradicate child, early, and forced marriage. These actions mean hope for millions of women and girls.

Raising Our Voices: THE GALA

On a crisp fall evening in New York City, more than 350 guests gathered in the elegant lobby of the Museum of Modern Art for the annual celebration of the work of the Center for Reproductive Rights. The gala honored the inspirational work of three champions of reproductive freedom: international human rights law pioneer Dr. Colin Gonsalves, Dr. Sharon Malone, and former U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder.

2015 FINANCIALS

(A statement of financial activities from July 1, 2014, through June 30, 2015)

The fiscal year ending June 30, 2015, was a record-breaking year for the Center. Total revenue grew 5 percent to a record $20.4 million. Of this total, program spending amounted to $17 million and represented 80 percent of every dollar spent.
